Minister to open children's centre

CANOLFAN Plant Llangefni, Mudiad Ysgolion Meithrin's second Integrated Centre in Wales, will be officially opened by Jane Hutt, Assembly Minister for Children, Education, Lifelong Learning and Skills, at 12.30pm on Thursday, October 30, 2008.

Jane Hutt, said: "This centre is an excellent example of partners working together to achieve the best possible start for our youngest children."

The new Integrated Centre features offices for Mudiad Ysgolion Meithrin's core staff in North Wales, as well as day care provision of the highest standard for up to 60 children at Meithrinfa Medra day nursery.

Canolfan Plant Llangefni will differ from the Mudiad's existing Integrated Centre in Aberystwyth, as a number of partners will share the facilities, including Anglesey Children and Young People's Information Service, Flying Start, Rural Family Service and Cylch Meithrin Stryd y Bont.

Hywel Jones, Mudiad Ysgolion Meithrin chief executive, said: "Building one Integrated Centre would be an achievement for any local authority - but as far as we know, no local authority has built two Integrated Centres from scratch. This, therefore, places Mudiad Ysgolion Meithrin's decision to build its second centre in a national context."

Meithrinfa Medra is the fourth day nursery managed by Mudiad Ysgolion Meithrin. Opened in May, the nursery offers quality childcare and education for up to 60 children aged between six weeks and school age.

The nursery has a state-of-the-art kitchen providing snacks and nutritious meals for children throughout the day.

A team of experienced and enthusiastic staff ensures each child has the opportunity to take part in a wide range of activities that will promote all aspects of his/her development.

Additional support is also available for parents, from Mudiad Ysgolion Meithrin, Flying Start and Children and Young People's Information Services staff based within Canolfan Plant Llangefni.

Hywel Jones added: "The process of building the Centre, from the early discussions to its completion, was quite challenging, but through all the troubles, we must pay tribute to The Isle of Anglesey County Council's officers and councillors for their patience, perseverance and support.

"We're extremely proud of the partnership which has developed between the Mudiad and the county council, and we eagerly look forward to working together and extending the partnership during the coming years. We're very grateful to the following for their financial support: European Union Objective One - European Regional Development Fund (ERDF), Welsh Assembly Government, Big Lottery Fund and Anglesey County Council."
