

The Next Step

Training and Learning Opportunities

Take the next step to a new career

AT this time of year, many people think about new beginnings and new opportunities. If you're currently looking for a new profession, why not think about taking that next step and looking at the wide range of training opportunities available. There are several local specialists who offer a wide range of training options, enabling you to take that step towards a new career.

● YH Training Services has been delivering quality accredited training backed up by a professional service for 25 years. Staff work with local businesses to help train staff and give advice to businesses on employing an apprentice. There is also help for those in employment with career development and recognition for skills and hard work, built up over the years. If you're currently unemployed, then YH Training Services provides a place to look for support and the various options available. Parents or guardians requiring information can research their options with YH Training Services and realise that college and university are not the only routes to success and not always suitable for everyone. YH Training Services also advises on the options available to young people, regardless of grades. Help is available on everything, ranging from key skills to employment with an apprenticeship. ● C&K Careers can help people of all ages with their next step towards work or training. Each year the organisation helps over 3,000 16-19s into apprenticeships, jobs or other training opportunities. Employers do have apprenticeship and other vacancies available. Currently C&K Careers is advertising over 100! If you are not quite ready for an apprenticeship there are other training options available. Get the latest jobs and training opportunities from C&K Careers sent direct to your Android phone, search for 'C&K Careers' on the Android store or scan the box, follow on Twitter @ckcareers1 or visit www.workabout.org.uk Training opportunities are also available for adults. Drop in to one of the Connexions Centres (see advert) or ring 0800 5 979 979. Companies interested in promoting vacancies or setting up training can take advantage of a FREE advice service provided by Recruitline Advisors, e-mail at Recruitline@ckcareers.org.uk ● Elite Skills Beauty Academy is the place to be for fast track courses in beauty and holistic therapies. It caters for the needs of people looking to progress their career in the industry (from level two to three), or for people looking for a career change. You'll be taught by inspired educators in beautiful surroundings designed to feel like real salons. Full time study, evening and weekend options are available. You'll learn how to make every client feel special and give them the confidence that only comes from being transformed by a true professional. The course modules are taught by dedicated NVQ educators and include theory work, tests, project work, demonstrations and workshops. To be on an apprenticeship program you need a job. You can approach any salon you want for vacant positions in your area. Open days February 1, 8, 15, 22 and 29 Wednesdays 2pm - 8pm. Ring to say if you will be attending.
