

Eating out of town

featuring The Grange

Hearty food at an affordable price

RIGHT on the border between Huddersfield and Wakefield is The Grange, a popular pub and restaurant which prides itself on hearty food at value for money prices.

Already taking bookings for Christmas, The Grange is a regular dining out venue for many people who enjoy the generous portions, excellent choice and affordable prices. Owner Paul Greening, who opened the family run pub in Briestfield Road 13 years ago, says one of the most popular days of the week is Sunday when diners come from far and wide to enjoy the excellent Sunday lunch, served between 12noon and 9pm.

Offering a selection of roasts, a choice of fish and a vegetarian option, the Sunday lunch is good value at one course for £7.95, two courses for £8.95 and three courses for £9.95. Booking is always advisable for Sunday lunch and at weekends.

Other popular choices at The Grange include a lunchtime three-course menu for £8.95 and an evening menu for £12.95.

At the moment food is served Wednesday to Sunday, although The Grange is open for drinks both Monday and Tuesday evening. Food is served all day 12noon to 9pm on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

As well as the three-course lunchtime and evening offers, diners can also enjoy a range of bar snacks, an evening menu with a more extensive choice and some blackboard specials. Paul says his chef is currently working on a new menu to be introduced shortly.

Looking towards Christmas, a new festive fayre menu will be available from December 1 to run throughout December. This offers a choice of both traditional Christmas food and more contemporary choices.

On Christmas Day itself, the five course menu is available for £49.95, with children under 13 £24.95.

The menu includes a starter, champagne sorbet, main course and dessert with coffee and a warm mince pie to finish.

To tempt you, a couple of examples from the Christmas Day menu are: Monkfish Tail wrapped in Parma Ham and Wild Boar Terrine with tomato chutney and melba toast.

The Grange also hosts regular live entertainment, a Wednesday general knowledge quiz, Friday music quiz and a popular Thursday Zumba class. Look out for 'Elvis' on December 23.

It also has strong community links with sports teams and hires out the upstairs function room for parties, weddings, conferences, funerals etc. Ring 01924 849669.
