

Trearddur Bay is the island of choice

Most visitors to Anglesey come for its lovely countryside and the dozens of unspoilt beaches it offers.

Five of these beaches hold prestigious European Blue Flag awards for being well managed and having excellent standards of cleanliness, safety and water quality. One of these is Trearddur Bay.

This lovely bay lies on the north west coast of the island, not too far from the port of Holyhead.

Visitors realise that they are unlikely to have a fortnight of unremitting sunshine and so are well aware of the wide range of stimulating attractions available to fill days that are not suitable for the beach and other outdoor pursuits.

Beaumaris also has a fine castle, which was built for Edward I by the leading architect of the age, Master Phillip de St George, and the town's jail is also a very popular attraction.

Best time of year to buy

THERE may be snow on the ground, but if you are thinking of owning a caravan holiday home, this is one of the best times of the year to buy.

The award-winning Tree Tops Caravan Park in North Wales, has a fantastic selection of new and used caravans, at prices to suit most budgets.

Andy Walker, general manager, said: "Despite the reported economic downturn, we are receiving more enquiries than normal for this time of year.

"Many of the people we are meeting are looking to purchase a caravan to escape the doom and gloom that seems to be continually publicised just now."

With its well tended grounds and stunning gardens, Tree Tops is considered by many to be the perfect stress-free escape.
