FROM floral prints and stripes to minimalistic Zen and eco-friendly flooring, the shops are brimming with this season's trends!

A key element to consider if you plan to whip out the paint brush or rip up that old carpet, incorporating a couple of the latest trends into your design can give your house a whole new lease of life. Starting with some of the most popular design trends this year, nature themes and eco-friendly products are dominating many areas of interior design, while Scandinavian chic is set to be another big influence.

As for colours, just like the catwalks, metallics and bright, colourful palettes are also predicted to be popular in the home this summer. A great way to achieve that on-trend look, a splash of hot pink or tangerine orange looks brilliant on feature walls or in cleverly placed accessories and can really liven up a room.

Pattern power is another key trend that looks to dominate this season, and whether it's intricate motifs or daring, large prints, they can be used in almost any room and look great on furniture, wallpaper and curtains alike.

And it's not just inside the home that you can make a statement, either.

Your garden may be in full bloom, but there's still a lot you can do to create a horticultural haven that's bursting with bright colours.

To make sure your garden display keeps going as long as possible, pick off the dead flowers and pinch back straggly growths of summer bedding plants. Dead flowers should be collected from bedding dahlias every week.

August is the time for evergreen hedges such as yew and leylandii to be clipped.

Towards the end of the month is the ideal time to start feeding and weeding again and to carry out any aeration before the onset of autumn.

So get busy and your garden will be as delightful as your home.
